

for HOJND SURVEY

I am sorry, but I really could have been a co-signatory of Gerald's minute.

I do not think that we can justify devoting any resources to this study, especially as larger and more important projects such as the pathogenesis study will be quite demanding.

If there is a political need to continue with the examination of hound brains then it should be passed entirely to the VI Service.

J. W. Wilesmith
J W WILESMITH
Epidemiology Unit
18 October 1991

Mr R Bradley

cc: Mr G A H Wells

91/10.18/1.1